The Fairville exhibition "A Living Journey Through Co-production" shines a light on often-overlooked citizen-led initiatives that are helping to transform cities. Drawing on experiences from the Fairville Labs, the exhibition explores co-production and collective learning as pathways towards more just, and democratic urban and environmental policies. Through stories, maps, collaborative tools and collective outputs, you are invited to discover what becomes possible when residents, community organisations, researchers, practitioners and institutions work together. Along this living journey, the stories, practices and lessons emerging from the different Fairville Labs intertwine and enrich one another, revealing the potential of co-production to imagine and build fairer, more inclusive and more democratic cities.

The exhibition is coordinated by the Louise Centre of the Université libre de Bruxelles (louiselab.be), with the support of the CNRS and the Fairville project partners. FAIRVILLE (fairville-eu.org) is funded by the European Union's Horizon Europe research and innovation programme (Grant Agreement n°101094991).
